

We are driven to apply our expertise to the challenges facing the U.S. today through your organization.

As Fellows, we are mission-driven professionals with international experience interested in supporting nonprofits, funders, government actors, and think tanks working to promote civic dialogue, strengthen democracy, and defend human rights in the U.S.

Fellowships are full-time or part-time, paid or unpaid opportunities that can be as short as a month or as long as one year. In-person, mostly in the Washington, DC area, or remote opportunities are welcome.

Your organization gains capacity at a time when the political context is uncertain and resources are stretched thin, while Fellows apply their expertise and build their domestic experience and networks.

Democracy Renewal Group Fellows offer the most comprehensive spectrum of democracy work. From policy research and civic engagement to electoral integrity and legislative reform, no one in the democracy space matches our depth and range of expertise. Whatever the challenge, we have someone who's spent their career on it.

How we can help.

- Elections landscape monitoring and protection strategies
- Civic education to counter authoritarianism
- Scenario planning for changing political context
- Digital security and digital tools to respond to new authoritarian threats
- Risk analysis and crisis management for political crises and violence
- Coalition building moving from issue-based advocacy to pro-democracy action
- Legislative analysis and policy development at all levels
- Anti-corruption and rule of law research and analysis
- Skills-building for organizing and noncooperation campaigns
